U.S. Defense Head Confers With Chiang

McElroy Is Believed
Seeking New Plan
For Quemoy Crisis

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary Neil McElroy met with President Chiang Kai-shek Monday amid reports he is seeking a new formula for settlement of the Quemoy crisis.

Two meetings between the two officials abruptly turned the attention from the new Communist cease-fire extension.

In addition to meeting Chiang, McElroy got a military briefing from Gen. "Tiger" Wang Shu-ming, Nationalist armed forces chief.

What was discussed in the meetings was not disclosed. But reports on Formosa said it had some bearing on this formula: give the Nationalists more fire-power and better weapons as the basis for reducing garrisons in the off-shore islands.

Secretary of State Dulles has suggested fewer troops for the off-shore island if a dependable cease-fire can be arranged.

McElroy on arrived Sunday denied he was on a special mission to persuade Chiang to accept this American view. But he is the highest ranking American official to visit Formosa since the Quemoy crisis erupted Aug. 23. He would be directly concerned with any turnover of better weapons to the Nationalists.

There has been no evidence of a softening in Nationalist opposition to cutting back the Quemoy and Matsu garrisons.

Associated Press Correspondent Gene Kramer, reporting from Quemoy, said the Nationalists there had relaxed Monday after waiting all night for a war that didn't come.

Kramer said the cease-fire extensions had made it seem unlikely that the Reds would resume heavy bombardment because two weeks were enough for the Nationalists to bring in unlimited combat supplies.

He added the Nationalists were continuing to unload ammunition and other supplies on Quemoy.

Quemoy's second ranking official, Lt. Gen. Ko Yuan-feng, told newsmen the chances of Red invasion of Quemoy now are much less than before Aug. 23, when the intense Red shelling began.

Ko, senior deputy commander, added: "We will continue to strengthen our fortifications and defense works . . . but there is no pressing need or immediate shortage of anything."

Ko reported the Communists have repaired extensively their gun positions, strengthened fortifications, and shifted troops during the original seven-day cease-fire. He added there is no evidence the Communists have imported troops or brought larger naval vessels into the area opposite Quemoy.

Asked whether the Communists are free to use Amoy port and start coastal shipping through the channel area in range of the Nationalist guns, Ko replied: "our policy is that we are always on the defense only."

He would not amplify, but his answer would seem to imply that Nationalist guns would not open up against nonwarships using the shipping channel.

Nuclear Device "Lea" Set Off In Yucca Flat

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UPI) — The most powerful nuclear device in the Atomic Energy Commission's current test series was seen as a brief flash before dawn Monday in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The device, dubbed "Lea" and fifth in the current series, was set off at 5:20 a.m. p.s.t., from a balloon anchored 1,300 feet over

DeGaulle Tells Army To Halt Algeria Politics

PARIS (UPI) — Premier Charles de Gaulle Monday ordered French army officers in Algeria to end all political activity before the parliamentary elections next month.

The order was directed at army men who, through political action, helped return de Gaulle to power last May.

De Gaulle wrote to Gen. Raoul Salan, French commander-in-chief in rebellious Algeria: "The time has come when army people must step out of any organization with a political goal, whatever the reasons might have been for them to enter these organizations since the month of May."

"Nothing should justify their belonging to these organizations any more, and I order them to leave without delay," de Gaulle said. He referred to the public safety committees which were set up five months ago in the "revolt" of French settlers in Algeria against the Paris government replaced by de Gaulle.

At the same time, de Gaulle told Salan, "I want clean, free elections in Algeria." Algeria will elect representatives to the French National Assembly Nov. 23.

Nazis On Trial

BONN, Germany (UPI) — Two former Hitler SS men went on trial here Monday on charges of participating in the torture killings of thousands of inmates of Nazi concentration camps between 1935 and 1942.

Husband Justified In Complaint Against Wife

LONDON (AP) — Peter Ender was perfectly happy until he became a golf widower. His wife Freda started playing eight or nine rounds a week and neglected their home, he told the Divorce Court Monday.

Mrs. Ender, a lissome 45, said she took up the game at her husband's suggestion and it was only two or three rounds a week any way.

And she complained he tried to stop her golf by dousing her in a cold bath and throwing her clubs on top of her.

Judge John Flowers dismissed a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Ender charging cruelty.

"The husband was justified in making some complaint," he said.

Cross-Country Skater In Colo.

SHARON, Pa. (UPI) — Sylvia Kroccheck, 50-year-old Grove City, Pa., roller-skating enthusiast reported Monday that she had reached Golden, Colo., on her skate to the West Coast.

Sylvia, who left home Sept. 29, said in a postcard to the Sharon-Herald that she "never felt yet" and that she was "unhurt." She admitted cheating a bit, however.

She said she "had to take a ride over rough roads so I wouldn't get stranded." Her last report to the newspaper here was from 50 miles northwest of Columbus, Ohio on Oct. 5.

Sylvia, the self-proclaimed roller skating champion of Mercer County, is en route to Los Angeles to find a job. She has worn out 24 sets of skate wheels since she started her cross-country skate.

FTC To Probe Grocery Chains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission announced Monday it will investigate the nation's big grocery chains and their suppliers.

A resolution adopted by the commission said there have been many complaints of price-fixing, unfair competition and concentration of economic power within the food industry in recent years.

The commissioners said a review of the situation indicated to them that a broad investigation would be in the public interest.

The FTC fixed as its main target the concentration of power at the retail level of the industry. It added that investigators also will consider the practices of food wholesalers, manufacturers, distributors and brokers.

COLUMBUS, (UPI) — Edward Palmer, 88, former president of the old Ohio Wax Paper Co., died Monday at Mt. Carmel Hospital. Services will be held here Wednesday.

Scar-Faced Negro Sought In Bombing

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police searched for a scar-faced (Negro) man Monday night in the Sunday bombing here of a Jewish temple.

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said the man drove into a service station across Peachtree Street from the temple about 1 a.m. Sunday and asked for directions to the house of worship.

Jenkins said also that officers are looking into reports that a 1950 Chevrolet occupied by two white men drove into the temple's driveway about 11 p.m. Saturday.

The building was blasted with dynamite shortly before 4 a.m. Sunday in a recurrence of a wave of Jewish synagogue bombings in the South.

Tempting reward money topped the $65,000 mark for perpetrators of the attacks.

A service station operator, one of scores of persons in the neighborhood of the temple who were questioned, told about a 1956 Pontiac hardtop entering his place early Sunday. He said the driver had a scar from his left ear to his chin.

Police were seeking persons known to have been involved in anti-semitic activities here. These included a group that picketed the Atlanta Journal-Constitution building recently.

A nebulous organization that picked up the name "Confederate underground" at some point of its development has been identified with the Atlanta and similar bombings.

The National States Rights Party and the National Committee to Free America from Jewish Domination are among organizations that have engaged in anti-Jewish activities here.

Soviet Renews Balloon Charges

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union Monday renewed its charges that the United States sends spy balloons to photograph Soviet territory.

The news agency Tass said a protest note had been handed to U. S. Charge d'Affaires Richard H. Davis at the Soviet Foreign Ministry Monday morning. It called for immediate action to prevent further launches.

This was the second Soviet protest. The United States replied to an earlier note saying the balloons were sent up for scientific research and not espionage.

Work Stoppages Hamper Auto Output

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry's effort to step-up 1959 model output still is hampered by work stoppages and parts shortages.

Last week's output came to only 33,273 cars as General Motors was out of production. The total compared with 34,464 cars the preceding week and 38,815 in the like 1957 week.

So far this year car assemblies number 2,927,310 compared with 4,732,510 in comparable 1957.

Work Speeds On New Try To Hit Moon

Pioneer Plunges
Unobserved To End;
Flew 79,120 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Air Force scientists speeded work on a new "round-the-moon" project Monday within hours after moon-rocket No. 1 fell short and plunged to flaming destruction.

Unofficial word from the Cape Canaveral, Fla. launching site was that the new try would be made between Nov. 8 and 11, the next dates when the moon will be closest to earth in its 28-day orbit.

Pioneer, man's first moon-bound missile to crack through earth's atmosphere, soared to an unheard-of 79,120 miles before plunging back to unobserved disintegration over the South Pacific early Monday.

This space-pioneering venture did not disappoint scientists for all that it groped only a third of the distance to the moon. It reinforced their confidence that they can "shoot the moon" and eventually, reach the planets and even the center of the solar system, the sun.

Send Humans Out

They were talking, too, in terms of sending human beings out into space — a possibility less remote than before in view of radioed data from the short-lived Pioneer indicating that radiation danger decreases as a missile forces farther and farther into space.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, chief of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, said this new information "will be of great assistance in improving instruments for future space and lunar probes and for putting man into space."

The Air Force has one more chance, in the immediate future, to try putting a flying laboratory like Pioneer in the vicinity of the moon. It has been assigned three lunar probe shots. The first attempt failed Aug. 17 when the rocket exploded 77 seconds after take-off. The partially successful Pioneer was the second attempt.

Two more moonshots have been assigned to the Army. Unofficial word is that the Army may make its space bid in December and January, but there is some question whether the necessary rockets will be ready by that time.

Must Go Faster

Which ever service "hits" the moon first, it will have to hurtle its rocket aloft just a bit — but a do-or-die bit—faster than Pioneer's formidable speed.

One of the country's leading astronomers, Dr. I. M. Levitt, director of Philadelphia's Fels Planetarium, said Monday Pioneer was sent off at a speed of 34,400 feet a second. This was 850 feet a second short of the velocity needed to shoot it out of earth's main gravitational pull, Levitt said.

Other scientists said the missile's speed was reduced because it climbed at an angle slightly steeper than the planned one.

In any case, Pioneer didn't quite make it, and the efforts of scientists on the ground to slow its fall — and thus give it a chance to orbit around the earth — were unsuccessful. The explanation was prosaic: Pioneer's batteries were too cold to respond to signals from earth.

Foster Named Geneva Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — William C. Foster Monday was appointed chief U.S. representative to East-West talks at Geneva Nov. 10 on preventing surprise attack.

The other two delegates selected are Dr. George B. Kistiakowsky and Gen. Otto P. Weyland.

Foster, 61, is vice president of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. and a board member of various other industrial companies. He served as deputy secretary of defense during 1951-53.

Kistiakowsky, born at Kiev in Russia 58 years ago, is a chemistry professor at Harvard University. He is a member of President Eisenhower's Science Advisory Committee.

Weyland, 56, is commander of the Tactical Air Command at Langley Air Force Base, Va.

Review Appeals Denied By Court

Integration Cases Not Taken Up;
Tribunal Wishes Burton Happiness

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday knocked down appeals for reviews of three cases stemming from school integration.

After wishing Associate Justice Harold H. Burton health and happiness in his retirement, the high court:

Denied Louisiana school officials review of a decision striking down a requirement for a certificate of eligibility before admission to state institutions of higher learning. The decision had been handed down by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans on suits by Negroes who successfully contended their constitutional rights had been violated.

Power With Board

Refused the Delaware State Board of Education review of an order to draw up a plan of desegregation for all school districts which have not admitted Negroes. The board had contended that under Delaware law the power to effect desegregation lies not with it but with local school boards. Monday's review denial upheld a U.S. Circuit Court which had said it saw no merit in such a contention.

(Vincent A. Theisen, president of the Delaware State Board of Education, commented, "The matter is apparently in our hands. It will be considered further this week. I see no reason to say anything beyond that." The board meets Thursday.)

Denied Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus review of an injunction barring use of national guardsmen at Little Rock's Central High School a year ago last month. Faubus had claimed that U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald E. Davies, who issued the injunction, had acted without legal authority. Faubus also had claimed the Justice Department had no right to ask for the injunction because the department was not "the real party in interest."

The three cases were listed routinely among a large number which the Supreme Court refused to review.

Agree To Review

In another case, the high court agreed to review a U.S. Dist. Court decision that voided three Virginia laws aimed at the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Two of the state laws required organizations which engage in racial litigation, or collect funds for such purposes, to register with the state. The third provided punishment for stirring up litigation.

In other decisions, the court: Agreed to review a decision that broadcasting stations have immunity from libel suits for remarks made in political speeches which they cannot censor. The North Dakota Supreme Court had interpreted a section of the Federal Communications Act as giving such immunity by barring station censorship of political broadcasts.

Agreed to review the conviction of Russian Col. Rudolf I. Abel, 55, as a Soviet spy. Abel was convicted in U.S. Dist. Court in Brooklyn, sentenced to 30 years in prison, and fined $30,000. Other actions included:

Refusal to review the 1954 income tax evasion conviction of New York gambler Frank Costello.

Refusal to reconsider a decision blocking enforcement of a California law that required non-Communist oaths in obtaining tax exemptions.

Refusal to review government efforts to prosecute former Western Teamsters Union boss Frank Brewster on a charge of contempt of Congress.

South Africa Girl New Miss World

LONDON (UPI) — Penelope Ann Coelen, 18-year-old honey blonde from Durban, South Africa, Monday night won the title of Miss World, 1958.

Giant Bells Toll Dirge For Pontiff

22 Cardinals Attend
Funeral Services In St. Peter's Basilica

By FRAN KBRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — With awesome ceremony the Roman Catholic Church Monday committed Pope Pius XII to eternal rest near the tomb of St. Peter.

This location, selected by the cardinals, was a sign of their vast esteem for Pius XII. He himself had announced in 1950 the finding of the burial place of St. Peter, prince of the apostles.

Since that secret burial nearly 2,000 years ago, 142 other pontiffs have been placed to rest in the labyrinthine grottos of St. Peter's Basilica.

The giant bells of St. Peter's tolled a dirge as the body of the Pope, encased in three coffins, was lowered into the massive stone foundations of the basilica. The ceremony was one of extreme sadness.

Cardinals Attend

Twenty-two cardinals of the church, among them Francis Cardinal Spellman and James Francis Cardinal McIntyre from the United States, sat with bowed heads as the eulogy was read by Msgr. Nicola Metta, chosen by the cardinals for the task.

The mournful tones of the "Miserere," chanted by the vatican's Julian Choir, rose and fell through the recesses of the basilica throughout the service.

Strange sounds — never before associated with Pope Pius XII and his triumphal entries into the basilica — marked the two-hour ceremony.

These included the click of brace and bit screwdrivers, the pounding of hammers on a leaden coffin, and the whispering hum of acetylene torches that sealed it.

Above the incense, there was the odor of melting solder, and, at the end, the squeak of rope and pulley as the heavy, thrice-sealed coffins were lowered into the grottos.

The decision to place Pius XII near the burial place of St. Peter was a quick one, made by the cardinals and announced Monday. Earlier it had been expected that the Pope would be placed near the original burial place of Pope Pius X, whose sainthood he had proclaimed May 29, 1954. Pius XII had expressed a desire to be buried in that place.

Removed From Crypts

At the time of his canonization the body of Pius X was removed from the crypts under the basilica to a place near one of the altars in the basilica itself.

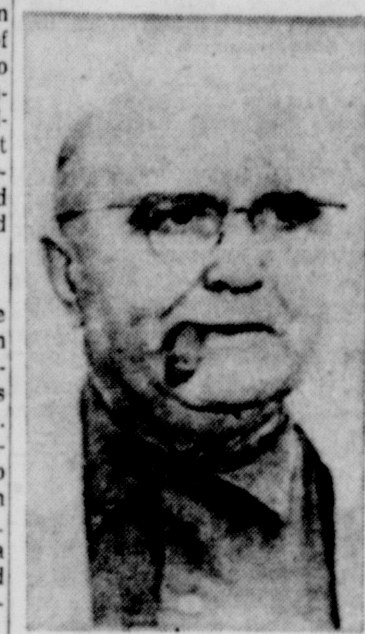

Vatican sources said Monday night they believed the burial place chosen for Pius XII would be permanent. Earlier the sources had said the Pope's body first would be placed in a provisional location.

The recesses of the basilica, the world's largest church, were dark and empty during Monday's service.

Nineteen cardinals, robed in their mourning purple, sat in a long and solemn row, their heads bent, their hands folded. Three others—including Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Masella, temporarily the church's supreme ruler as camerlengo or chamberlain, sat together near the three coffins, already set one inside the other and awaiting the body of the pontiff. These were of cypress, lead and oak.

Lebanon Foes Agree On New Government

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Some of Lebanon's political troubles appeared to be clearing late Monday with announcement of "an agreement in principle" on a new compromise government.

The announcement was made by a spokesman for the para-military Christian Phalange group which has opposed the Lebanese administration headed by premier Rashid Karami.

The spokesman said there were "too many people who want to be ministers" and major political factions still had to agree on composition of the new government.

But diplomatic quarters agree that a solution appeared to be in sight after five months of revolt and counter-revolt.

An estimated 2,000 American soldiers earlier began boarding a troop transport in continuation of the American withdrawal amid a fresh outburst of shootings and bombings by rival Lebanese factions.

At least four persons were shot down in the streets, including a nephew of former Premier Sami Es-solh who fled the country last month. The nephew was killed on his way to his office.

President Fuad Chehab called in Premier Rashid Karami and a long Christian Phalangist leader Pierre Gemayel, whose followers have been enforcing a bloody strike against the Karami government.

UN Approval Of Test Ban May Hinder Geneva Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union charged Monday that U.N. approval of a United States proposal to suspend nuclear weapons tests while East-West negotiations are in progress would hamper efforts to reach agreement.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin declared that only a call for an immediate unconditional halt to tests would contribute to success of the Soviet-U.S. British negotiations to begin in Geneva Oct. 31 on suspension of tests and adoption of a control system.

His statement in the 81-nation U.N. Political Committee appeared to cast further doubt on chances for agreement evolving out of the Geneva talks.

It came on the heels of an appeal by U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge for unanimous adoption of a U.S. resolution recommending no tests while the talks take place.

Lodge said the U.S. resolution, sponsored by 16 other nations including Britain, contains positive, forward-looking measures "consistent with the obligations of this body—and with the overwhelming aspirations of mankind."

He said a cessation of tests by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union while their representatives talk at Geneva "will facilitate a lasting agreement."

Zorin accused the Western Powers of trying to transfer all disarmament discussions from the political to the technical level, and to "drawn this matter in endless technical disputes as happened in the League of Nations."

During the day, the Soviet Union put out a statement alleging that Britain and the United States had not yet agreed to accept technical control measures worked out by experts in advance of the Geneva meeting.

A U.S. spokesman asserted the United States was prepared to accept the experts' recommendations as a basis for conference discussion, and was convinced putting them into effect would make the conference a success.

Sen. Knowland Is Ringing Doorbells

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (U)—You can get a pretty good idea of California's hectic race for governor from the fact that Bill Knowland is doing something he's never had to do in 25 years of campaigning.

He's ringing doorbells.

Maybe because he was running behind, the Republican senator suddenly switched tactics the other day. He canceled formal speaking engagements and announced a "shirtsleeve campaign."

"My coat is off," he said, "and I will be ringing doorbells wherever a doorbell is in reach."

Even before this decision, Knowland, 50, was matching his 53-year-old Democratic opponent, Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, stride for stride in the staggering job of getting around the big state—750 miles long, with 4,699 communities to reach.

Brown and Knowland seem intent on shaking the hands of all 6,752,421 registered voters. Brown figures he averages 4,000 miles a week.

"I've moved into so many places in so many ways," Brown says, "that I feel like a marble in a pinball machine."

At factory gates, on downtown street corners, at fairs and picnics and barbecues, campaign workers walk ahead of the brisk, cheery candidate and act as pitchmen. "Here comes Pat Brown," they'll say. Or, "shake hands with the next governor."

Washington friends who knew Knowland as the serious always correct Senate Republican leader may be surprised by his election shenanigans. They aren't the only ones.

A newsman along on Knowland's doorbell-ringing venture in Los Angeles reported the first housewife to come to the door

"almost fainted deadaway" to see the coatless figure of the senator.

One GOP luncheon saw Knowland, who is seldom frisky, good-naturedly don a holster and wave a couple of toy six-shooters for photographers.

The informal approach may not come easy for the Republican nominee who has never lost an election in 25 years as a state legislator and U. S. senator. But, aware of the stakes, he has waded into campaign with typical hard-charging determination.

"I'm enjoying it," he remarked after a particularly tiring day. His secretary said his 200-pound boss actually has gained weight.

Snubbed by most of the Republican ticket, Knowland has harnessed himself on his own, with active help of his wife, Helen. It was she who toured the state by chartered bus to carry the Knowland torch in the primary when the senator spent most of his time in Washington.

Circulation Dilemma

MANCHESTER, England (UPI)—The Manchester Guardian's circulation department admitted Monday it was stumped. The paper received a letter from an American regretfully cancelling his subscription because "I passed on to a better world Aug. 3, 1958." The paper said it was wondering "what to say in reply, and where to send it."

Giant Bells

The "Miserere" was begun, and 16 chairbearers who had carried the Pope in triumph in his lifetime carried the regally robed body to a place alongside the coffins.

The solemn act of absolution, with incense and holy water, was performed by Msgr. Canisius Van Lierde, the Pope's sacristan and vicar for Vatican City.

Moving quickly, the bearers lifted the body and placed it in the coffin.

Then in one of the most touching parts of the ceremony each cardinal came forward, looked at the pontiff's pale features and sprinkled holy water on the body.

Cardinal Spellman, who has the same titular church in Rome that Pope Pius held when he was a cardinal, displayed deep emotion. Pietro Cardinal Fumasoni Biondi, bent under his 86 years, was helped as he came forward. A supporting hand was placed on his arm as he sprinkled the dead pontiff with holy water.

White silk was then placed over the Pope's face and folded hands while the choir chanted the Lord's Prayer.

Msgr. Metta read a Latin account of the Pope's accomplishments. It recalled how, as a nunzio in Berlin during World War I, he began his long fight for peace. It described him as the defender of Rome during World War II, when he walked among the bomb-shattered ruins of homes in a populous quarter.

Then Msgr. Antonio Bacchi, the Vatican's Latin specialist, unrolled a large sheet of parchment and read the rogito, or formal act of the burial service. It was signed and marked with the seal of the camerlengo, Cardinal Aloisio Masella, who carried a red scepter in his left hand as sign of his temporary authority.

Parchment Placed

The parchment was placed in a brass tube. Together with coins and medals of the Pope's reign, it was put in a separate bag deposited in the inner coffin.

This cypress coffin was then closed and sealed. The click-click of a brace sending screws into the wood broke the hushed silence.

Then the center lead coffin, bearing the pontiff's seals were placed at head and foot.

It was now 5:15 p.m. In the background, the choir chanted softly. Thin wisps of smoke rose as seals were pressed into the metal.

The third and final oak cover, also bearing the Pope's seal, was put in place, fastened tight and also marked with seals.

At 6 p.m. the triple coffin was taken to the altar of the confession, fastened to a rope and pulley scaffold and slowly lowered.

National Debt Soars To Highest Peak In 2 1/2 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National debt soared nearly $2,700,000,000 last week to the highest level in 2 1/2 years. The Treasury disclosed Monday the big increase was registered last Wednesday as the government borrowed about 3 1/2 billion dollars to replenish its depleted cash drawer.

Completion of the big borrowing operation pushed the gross national debt to $279,335,500,000. That's the biggest debt since March 15, 1956, when the government's financial obligations were about 365 millions heavier.

Last week's jump was only a

Antitrust Trial Against Milk Group Opens

WASHINGTON (AP)—A trial of civil antitrust charges brought against the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Assn. by the government opened in Federal District Court Monday before Judge Alexander Holtzoff.

Three previous monopolistic indictments against the association have been dropped or dismissed.

The government charges the co-operative, which supplies the Washington area with 90 per cent of its milk, with fixing arbitrary and noncompetitive prices and excluding other cooperatives from supplying milk to dealers in the area.

Judge Holtzoff asked for argument on a legal issue that possibly could throw the case out of court if resolved in favor of the association.

Herbert A. Bergson, association attorney, has raised the point the association might be immune from antitrust law provisions because it is exempted by the 1922 Capper-Volstead Act.

Joseph J. Saunders, Justice Department attorney, took the position, however, that the association doesn't fall within the exempting provisions of the law.

The association, seeking to refute that contention, put J. Homer Remsburg, Middletown, Md., association president, and William B. Hooper, Falls Church, Va., its general manager, on the witness stand.

Remsburg said the organization has 1,800 members, explained how directors are elected and described distribution of profits to members from the co-op's plant at Laurel, Md.

starter. The Treasury figures the debt will reach a record high by late next month or early December. The highest debt recorded to date was $280,821,000,000 at the end of 1955.

If this record isn't shattered sooner, it almost certainly will be by the Treasury's next cash borrowing. Officials have indicated the government will have to raise three billion dollars more in cash by early December.

All this borrowing is necessary because of the 12-billion-dollar deficit forecast for the fiscal year which began July 1. Income is down because of the recession, and spending is at a record peacetime level.

Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson has told Congress he expects the debt to exceed 287 billion dollars by next June.

The government is barred by law from borrowing more than 288 billions. This ceiling will drop to 283 billions automatically next July 1 unless Congress decides otherwise.

Anderson has said he expects the debt to drop to 283 billions by July. However, there is a good chance he'll have to ask Congress before then to raise the debt ceiling again. It was raised twice this year—to 280 billions and then to 288 billions.

Boosting the debt limit is one of the most unpopular—but unavoidable—chore on Capitol Hill. The ceiling has been rejiggered five times in the past five years. During World War II the limit was 300 billion dollars. The government never used all this borrowing authority, and the present debt exceeds the highest wartime figure.

Incidentally, not all of the current debt is subject to the ceiling. Some borrowing is excluded from this congressional control. The total debt subject to the limit was just under 279 billions last Wednesday, the latest day for which figures are available.

The Wednesday borrowing increased the Treasury's cash balance to $5,808,000,000 from 3 1/2 billions the day before.

BOASI Plans To Microfilm Mammoth File

BALTIMORE (AP)—The new secretary of health, education and welfare, had his first look Monday at the nation's biggest bookkeeping operation—The Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance (BOASI) which keeps Social Security records for 126 million Americans.

And the agency took the occasion of Arthur Flemming's visit to announce the condensation of its mammoth National Employee Index—158 million names on individual strips which now take up a full city block—into microfilm.

The index, contains 32 million more names than there are accounts because 70 per cent of the women are listed by both their maiden and married names. It now occupies 63,000 square feet of floor space.

The microfilming will condense this file to 2,000 reels of tape of floor space.

As new accounts are established in the future, the pertinent information for each account will be placed on electronic tape. These new accounts will be microfilmed automatically directly from the tape by means of a cathode-ray tube printer—built to the bureau's specifications.

The present file consists of the names with the corresponding Social Security account number written on flexible strips inserted in metal panels and hung on racks like pages in a book. With 119 names to a panel and 1,600 panels to a rack, the file already takes up a city block of floor space and is growing at the rate of about 3 million names and 6,000 square feet of space a year.

It imposes quite a labyrinth for the BOASI worker who must check the index as a cross reference to Social Security earnings records.

Literature Group Has Review

The Literature Group of the Woman's Civic Club heard a review of "The Eustace Diamonds," by Anthony Trollope, at the opening meeting of fall activities, Thursday at the club house. Preceding the meeting luncheon was served by the club Ways and Means committee. Approximately 50 attended. Mrs. Robert M. Bruce presided and introduced Mrs. William Van Newkirk, the reviewer.

Mrs. Van Newkirk pointed out that there has been a revival of interest in Victorian writers. Although Trollope never stood out in literary circles like his contemporaries, Dickens and Thackeray, yet his books are still read today, because his characters appear very real, human, livable and three dimensional people. He wrote in a plain, direct and methodical way.

The central figure in this novel is "Lizzie" who is ambitious for money, jewelry and social position. She gains all three by her marriage to wealthy and handsome Sir Florian Eustace. He died six months after their marriage, leaving Lizzie a life interest in his estate. The diamonds involved were Sir Florian's family heirlooms and lawyers claimed it was part of his estate. But Lizzie claimed the jewelry was an outright gift to her.

The story races along with Lizzie having one romance after another. The theft of the heirloom diamonds leads to court suits, political issues in Parliament and disastrous entanglements for Lizzie.

Members of the group committee serving with Mrs. Bruce were Mrs. Charles S. Catherman Jr., co-chairman, Mrs. Winfield I. Burton, Mrs. Fred E. Dodge, Mrs. Seth W. Harter, Mrs. Robert Young at the meeting of Grace WSCS, recently, in the fellowship hall. November 7 a service will be held at 2 in Central Methodist Church at 7:30 in the Living Stone Church of the Brethren. "Exchange, Goods, Ideas and People," is the topic. Each circle was asked to bring yarn or yardage material.

The annual bazaar and supper will be November 20. It was decided to meet October 28 at 10 a. m. in the fireside room for observance of the Week of Prayer and Self-denial. Mrs. Samuel Neat reported 39 sick calls in September.

A devotional on brotherhood was conducted by Mrs. Grayson Burke. Mrs. Everett Culp gave an illustrated talk on a trip to the Caribbean, including Jamaica, Haiti, Cuba and Puerto Rico. Refreshments were served by Circle 3.

Council Rules On Selection Of City Guards

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved an order making appointments of school crossing guards subject to approval of Council.

Previously, the commissioner of police and fire and chief of police had named the guards who are employed on a parttime, hourly pay basis.

In another first, council authorized a refund of contributions to the Police Pension Fund. The refund of $62.40 goes to Mrs. Bettie Williams who had been policeman until the job was abolished some weeks ago. Council, the order said, felt she was entitled to the refund since the job was abolished through no fault of her own.

The city will also receive a refund of $145.60 representing its contribution to the fund for Mrs. Williams' benefit.

In other action yesterday, council confirmed the appointment of Attorney Hugh A. McMullen as a member of the Housing Authority of Cumberland. His term will be for five years, expiring October 17, 1963.

Street Commissioner John J. Long was authorized to purchase a 40-ton carload of bag salt for use on streets during the winter months. Cost is $872.

Council accepted a deed from Bessie Schuh conveying to the city part of Lot 1, Block 23 of Johnson Heights Addition, intersection of Kent and Brookfield Avenues, in consideration for payment of $1 to reimburse her for expenses involved. Another order released paving liens in the amount of $1,440.51 and granted those insolventcies to the tax collector.

Emmanuel Episcopal Church vestry again offered its grounds at Baltimore and Greene streets for the annual city Christmas display.

Council received a letter from Attorney William C. Walsh, attorney for Potomac Edison Company, in which it was pointed out PE wants to reserve the right to recover cost of the removal of poles and other facilities in connection with the Cumberland Thruway.

The proposal was made as the result of recent discussions by the Council with the State Roads Commission on financing of the Thruway. The city had discussed a lump sum payment to the SRC with the state body then paying all the costs. PE wants to reserve the right to recover costs from either the city or SRC.

Credit Unions To Celebrate Here Thursday

The ten credit unions in Allegany County will observe International Credit Union Day with a party and a dance Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine City Club.

The speaker will be Michael J. O'Rourke, Laurel, a native of Mt. Savage who is serving as president of the Second Army Employees Credit Union for the third time.

O'Rourke is a graduate of LaSalle High School, Class of 1938, and attended Catherman's Business School. He spent five years in the Army and at present is a captain in the Army Reserve.

He is a member of the Second Army Efficiency Awards Committee, a member of the Maryland State Council, Knights of Columbus, and is a trustee of Patuxent Council of the Knights of Columbus.

O'Rourke has resided in Laurel the past seven years. He is a member of the Laurel Athletic League.

The credit union movement started October 17, 1848, in a small town in Germany. There are today over 25,000 credit unions in the western hemisphere with 12,500,000 members.

In addition to the speaker, there will be a floor show, refreshments and dancing.

Players To Begin Tryouts Today

Algonquin Players will conduct tryouts Wednesday and Thursday for its next presentation "My Three Angels."

The sessions will be held in City Hall auditorium at 8 p. m. Anyone interested in a role in the play is welcome.

Script books which have been available at Cumberland Free Public Library must be returned by today.

To Commend ABL

Commissioner John J. Long pointed out yesterday the important role of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in the historic moon shot and the Mayor and Council voted to send a letter of commendation.

ABL produced the third stage which boosted the rocket free of the earth's gravity.

The rapier was originally a slender, two-edged sword with a large cup hilt. Later, it was a light, sharp-pointed sword used only for thrusting.

Physical Fitness Program Is Outlined By Supervisor

A pilot study of the physical fitness of Allegany County school children reveals that over 56 per cent of those checked failed to pass a simple test involving six exercises.

This would mean that they failed to meet even a minimum standard required for general health and survival in case of emergency.

In Europe only 8.3 per cent of children tested revealed failures in these same physical fitness tests.

Allegany County's percentage compares with the national average of 56.6 per cent of failures and as a result the Board of Education has decided to do something about children getting "soft."

Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical education, has been given approval by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, to institute immediate measures to do something about the situation.

Pence noted that the wide difference between American and European school children is that European children do not have the benefit of a highly mechanized society.

They do not use cars, elevators or other labor saving devices, but must walk most places. Their recreation is based mainly on active use of their own bodies.

American children, the county supervisor observed, usually ride most everywhere they go, engage in recreation as spectators instead of participants (especially in front of television sets) and take advantage of modern conveniences which eliminate most home chores without replacing them with physical activity.

Allegany County youngsters, Pence declared, like others in the nation have consequently grown soft.

Most children and adults as well are weaklings in three areas—hands, arms, shoulders and upper trunk muscles. This causes chins to protrude and shoulders to sag, he said.

Pence next observed that weak abdominal muscles accentuated by a layer of fat allows the pelvis to sag. This taps the spin forward and the resulting sway-back invites low back pain.

He declared that medical conclusions are that lack of sufficient exercise constitutes as serious a deficiency as vitamin deficiency.

A muscle not used will shrink and remain undeveloped. Medical research has proved that the physically active live longer, age later, tire less easily, show less muscular and emotional tension, are less susceptible to coronary heart disease, diabetes, ulcers, stiff neck and backaches.

Pence said the answer, then, is for parents and teachers to impress upon each child the grave importance of getting his body into good physical condition and keeping it there.

Since there is not time in the school day to meet the physical needs of children, parents and teachers must help them to determine their weaknesses, show them ways of building up the weakened parts, and encourage him constantly to spend some after-school time daily in strenuous physical exercises.

A county-wide physical fitness program will be instituted in the near future and will be another Board of Education pioneering project.

City-Owned Lots Slated To Be Sold

The city engineer has been requested to prepare a list of all city-owned lots suitable for building purposes which could be offered for bids and placed on the tax books.

Finance Commissioner Lucille Roeder revealed the request in connection with the report on a bid of James H. Raines for Lots 7, 8 and 9 in Block 43 of Ridgedale Addition. She said she had investigated the lots, as ordered by council, from both the standpoint of getting the property back on the tax books and in regard to a health hazard which might be created by use of a septic tank in an area adjacent to Ridgedale Reservoir.

A health department report contained in her statement said a large amount of septic systems putting sewage in the ground over a many year period may be a future source of contamination.

She said she felt even the slightest report in respect to water contamination should be recognized and recommended that sale of the lots be withheld until such time as property owners are willing to bear cost of an adequate sewer. She also recommended that the health department issue no more septic tank permits for the Ridgedale Reservoir area.

Some discussion was also held on the Van Buren Avenue sewer before it was tabled one week for further consideration. Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Gump said the sewer being installed would service only one side of the street. Prior to tabling the issue for a week, Street Commissioner John J. Long said he felt sewers should be installed adequately now and not dug up for replacement later as a matter of good business.

Parking Receipts Up

Parking meter receipts the week of October 5 totaled $847.55 compared to $767.65 the week of September 28, an increase of $79.90. Inspector Harry Whisner said yesterday.

Have you visited Headquarters for a Second Income?

More and more families are looking into the possibility of a second income by visiting what we might call Headquarters.

If you don't know Headquarters, you ought to. They're the Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange. They've helped millions of people along the road to extra income through sensible investment in stocks or bonds. Here's how they can help you.

First. When you invest, you need facts and intelligent advice. It's foolish to depend on tips or rumors. Stock and bond prices go down as well as up. A company may not pay a dividend or interest, may not make a profit. So you drop in at a nearby Member Firm, where you'll be most welcome. You may say to a Registered Representative or a Partner something like this: "I'm not rich. But I have money left over after paying my bills. And my emergencies are cared for. How can I best use this extra cash to bring me extra income from investments?"

Second. The man (sometimes it's a woman) is glad to share his knowledge with you. Before anyone can become a Registered Representative with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange he must meet Exchange requirements for character, knowledge and experience. He may advise bonds instead of stocks. He may give you (ask him for it) a copy of "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," with the records of more than 300 stocks that have paid a cash dividend every year from 25 to 109 years. He can help you work out a sensible investment program for your needs and pocketbook. And from time to time ask him to review your securities with you.

Third. You've decided to buy, let's say, some common stock on the New York Stock Exchange. This will make you part-owner of a company. If it prospers, that can be mighty pleasant, because you can share in any profits and probably in any growth. The Member Firm sends your order promptly to its representative on the floor of the Exchange. This is the great market place where orders to buy or sell securities come together from investors all over the country. The stocks and bonds of most of the famous corporations of America are listed there.

Fourth. On the floor of the Exchange, your Member Firm's man finds a seller, often within minutes after you've placed your order. And whisk! the order is executed. The only charge for this experienced service is a modest commission that varies with the amount of your order.

That night at the dinner table you say quietly to the little woman, "Darling, I'm part-owner of a big American business." If she doesn't glow with gratitude, wait for the arrival of your first dividend check. Then look out for the lipstick.

If you're impatient to get more information (and why not be?) send this coupon now and we'll mail you your free copy of the immensely helpful booklet that gives the records of all those stocks. It also describes the Monthly Investment Plan, through which you can acquire stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for as little as $40 every three months up to $1000 a month.

Council Takes Issue In Four-Year Plan Of Long

Four members of the Mayor and Council took issue yesterday with some statements contained in a four-year plan presented last week by Street Commissioner John J. Long, particularly that which proposed issuance of a $500,000 bond program.

"This matter has not, as of this date, been presented at any meeting of the Mayor and Council and is not at this time under study by the Mayor and Council as a whole," the statement said. The statement was read by Mayor J. Edwin Keech who signed it along with Commissioners Lucile Roeder, G. Ray Light and Philmore Fleming.

Referring to a statement by Long that "This Mayor and Council must realize the seriousness of the situation and the necessity for a solution, or suffer the eventual consequences of indifference," the four members of council said "We must state that it is our duty to put our own house in order before we ask the citizens of Cumberland to entrust us with additional funds, when, to date, we have not even proven to our own satisfaction that all waste has been eliminated from each and every department of the city."

"We take issue with the statement, 'All we need is leadership, full public understanding, and the will to act.' This administration is trying to provide you with leadership, and every program which is submitted will be given full and complete study, the results of which will be released to the press. We have the will to act, but will not act unless we are clear in our own minds that we are taking the action in the best interests of every section and all citizens of the city."

"We trust that the entire Mayor and City Council will be able to present to the citizens a long-range program for each department of the city after we have sufficient time to study all of the complex and many problems which are facing us at this time. Money is important, but we will not approve any ordinance authorizing the issuance of bonds until the citizens have been advised as to the plan of expenditure for such funds."

"The needs of all services must be studied and all approved at the same time if the Mayor and Council is to conduct the business of the city in an efficient manner."

"The Mayor and Council will insist that each department is operated in an efficient and economical manner so that the taxpayer receives value received for his dollar."

"We feel that the condition did not exist in the Street Department during the past administration and, in fairness to the present commissioner, he probably has not had sufficient time to correct the situation as of this date. When it can be proved to the Mayor and City Council that all departments under the commissioner of streets and public property are being operated in an efficient and economical manner, the Mayor and Council will then consider a request for additional funds if properly presented and shown to their satisfaction that it is in the best interests of the city."

"We feel that the issuance of bonds is the easy way to meet any crisis. We are not looking for the easy way and will insist that every avenue be explored with the idea that the city will be placed on a 'pay-as-you-go' basis."

"We feel that the adoption of any program during this administration must be studied by the entire Mayor and Council and, if approved by them, made part of the long-range planning for the city."

"This administration has inherited many debts and obligations which it must meet and certainly, at this time, cannot favor the issuance of any bonds which will mean that the debt service of the city will be increased proportionately and undoubtedly the tax rate limit would have to be increased in order to meet the obligation incurred through the issuance of bonds. We feel that the citizens of Cumberland are not in favor of any increase in the debt service or tax rate at this time, and we trust that any member of the Mayor and City Council having any long-range plans for capital improvements or the expenditure of any substantial amount of money will have the courtesy to first discuss such matters with the entire group to see whether or not such plans are feasible and in the best interests of the city. If such a program is sound, it will certainly be made a part of the long-range planning of the city."

Upon completion of the reading of the statement, Mayor Keech said it does not say that other members of the council do not approve of Long's program. Rather, Keech said, the four members feel it should be discussed as a body before it was released to the press. He said council did not want anything released "until we know about it."

Commissioner Light said there was no doubt in any one's mind that a lot of work is necessary under the Street Department and all one had to do was ride over the streets to prove the point. However, he said his objection was that in reading accounts of Long's program it was indicated if the bond issue did not pass it was the result of action by the Mayor and Council.

Light said he did not like "this shoving it into our lap" and added that "each of us has a department and we're trying to do the best we can."

Light also took exception to the statement concerning "leadership" and pointed out that members of council are working many extra hours to give people a good government.

He said he didn't want something "shoved in my lap" that he could do nothing about.

Mrs. Roeder said city revenues and bond issues come out of the same pocket and added consideration must be given to all departments so that council can come up with a proposal to present to the people. She pointed out that council is in the process of long-range planning, working on it every day, in fact, so that when the time comes, council can tell the people "This is what we need and why we need it."

Long replied briefly. He asked for a copy of the statement and said he feels his program is a good one. Recommendations are good, he said, adding that he believed council would find them so "in the copies I gave you before it went to the press."

Long said members of council voted him into the street commissioner job and he was going to do the best job he could. He said he felt the people should know his department's problems and he had exercised his just right in using freedom of the press to let them know.

Long added that the department "is pretty well along" to being organized and said a report on recreation is upcoming and conferences set on the sewage treatment plant. He continued "Mine is a vast department involving millions of dollars. It's a big job."

Later in the meeting during a discussion on the Wempe Drive sewer, Long said he "regretted I received a spanking for proposing a plan and letting the people know."

Mayor Keech replied that it was not a "spanking" but where money is involved, the Mayor and Council should know about it. He said circumstances such as this "puts us on the spot."

Hercules President Lauds ABL

The president of the Hercules Powder Company, which operates the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory for the Navy, and the head of the Defense Department's space agency yesterday sent telegrams of congratulations to the employees and supervisory personnel for their part in the historic moonshot on Saturday.

A. E. Forsler, president of Hercules, sent the following telegram:

"To Mr. Little (Duard H., manager of ABL) and all the employees of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory on behalf of the board of directors and of all Hercules people everywhere, congratulations on your participation in this historic event. We share your pride in your achievement."

A telegram from Roy W. Johnson, director of the Defense Department's Advanced Research

Project Agency, stated: "Heartiest congratulations to you and the other dedicated Americans in the armed services and industry who have participated so successfully in the accomplishment of one of mankind's great scientific breakthroughs."

"Today's event is one of history's keystones in the building of man's knowledge of the universe in which he lives."

"It was brought about by imagination, enthusiasm and teamwork of those who serve their country in the Army, Navy and Air Force as well as others in scientific and industrial endeavors."

"Today's great success is yet another in our stride forward toward the accomplishment of our plans for the orderly conquest of space. There is yet much to be done, but with full trust in our team I am confident we can look forward to new achievements." The ABL scientists and workers created and produced the third stage of the Pioneer rocket which was the first to break through into outer space. The Pioneer surged into space 74,149 miles between early Saturday to midnight Sunday before beginning the plunge back to the earth's atmosphere.

Mrs. Virginia S. Grapes, 206 Pear Street, reported someone cut down her peach tree Saturday night, and Louis Apple, 1402 Holland Street, reported damage in his property at 453 Independence Street. Apple said the vandals broke windows, damaged a roof and smeared paint on his building.

Martin O'Toole and John O'Rourke informed police that vandals had smeared blue paint on their automobiles parked in the 800 block of Fairview Avenue.

Mrs. Eleanor Zimmerman reported to police that someone stole her wallet, containing $28 in cash and valuable cards, in her office at the Allegany County Welfare Department.

Says GOP Frantic

He said the Republicans are frantic and that everything indicates that this is "our year."

Mr. Reilly urged voters to sweep county Democratic candidates into office and carry the state ticket with them.

The absence of pride in the Republican record, Mr. Foley said, will cause thousands of Allegany County Republicans to vote the Democratic ticket on November 4.

He said his Republican opponent did not enact a single piece of legislation for the people of the 6th District and that 75 of the 77 bills he introduced died in committee.

Hits Discrimination

Medical advances which have increased the longevity of American men and women, Mayor D'Alesandro said, point to the need for effective legislation to end the employment discrimination being practiced against middle-aged or older citizens.

Will Ask Study

"It simply does not make sense," he said, "that when a man or woman reaches 40 years of age he or she should be considered too old for hiring and yet that is what is happening in many businesses and industries today."

"As a matter of fact, in many cases when a person is only 35 he or she is rejected under employment policies which are in effect.

"Everyone knows that a person with maturity, with years of experience, will in most cases be a stable, dependable employee. Yet with millions of Americans living longer and healthier lives they are being brushed off as 'too old.'"

"We are told that actuarial requirements of pension and insurance plans are to blame for the cold-blooded discrimination against employment of the middle-aged or older as new employees."

"I refuse to believe that ways cannot be found to overcome these objections if sincere efforts are made."

"The solution may lie in partial pensions and insurance, waiver of pension in some circumstances or in other methods to be determined."

Mrs. Plampain said a friend of her husband's gave them to her in Belgium and asked her to deliver them across the border. She was held for further investigation.

Stowaway Receives Maximum Sentence

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ismail Cuellar, 52-year-old Cuban, tried to sneak a ship ride to Germany and landed in a United States jail for one year.

The maximum sentence for a stowaway was delivered here by Judge Roszel C. Thomsen.

John G. Underwood, assistant U.S. attorney, told the judge that Cuellar had been deported five times from this country.

Cuellar said he stowed away on the S. S. Dochenhuden in Havana last month. Since it was a German ship he assumed it was going to that country and not the U.S., the defendant said.

Ike May Make More Court Appointments

In naming a successor to Justice Harold H. Burton, now retired from the Supreme Court, President Eisenhower has made his fifth appointment to the Court. He may have more to make—Justice Frankfurter is 75, Justice Black 72, and Justice Douglas reaches voluntary retirement age of 70 on Thursday.

After the first Court, of six members, was named by George Washington in 1789, no President so far has named more than five members, except the only President to serve more than two terms. Some of the most popular chief executives had no chance to pick more than relatively few justices, some of the least popular ones picked relatively many.

Theodore Roosevelt in eight years selected only three justices. Taft in four years named five, a majority of the Court, in addition to elevating Edward D. White of Louisiana, Democrat, from associate to chief justice. Coolidge, popular chose only one of the justices in six years, Hoover, unpopular, three in four years. Truman had four in eight years.

Although F. D. Roosevelt in 12 years made eight Supreme Court appointments, in addition to elevating Harlan F. Stone, Republican, to Chief Justice, he had none at all in his first four and a half years. On that account some members of Congress who opposed his Court-packing proposal of 1937 said they would vote, instead, to give him two appointments at the time. (The Constitution, of course, fails to specify the number of members of the Court).

Another proposal is for a new justice to be appointed every two years regardless of death or resignations. That has been about the average—92 justices in 169 years. It is argued that thus no individual President would have too many or few appointments to make, the stream of new blood on the Court would be constant, no justice would "borrow time" to avoid affording an appointment to a President he disliked, and no future President, with term of office now restricted to eight years, could name a full majority of the Court.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Church Of Rome

Whenever a new Pope is to be elected, interest usually turns to the strength of the Roman Catholic Church which survives attack from outside or weakness from within. As history is now written, this is a young religion, not quite 2,000 years old. It is an outgrowth of the appearance of Jesus in Jerusalem and the spread of His doctrine by Paul and his associates among the peoples of the Roman Empire.

Most of the early churches were actually in Jewish synagogues, some of the synagogues going over to the new doctrine altogether; some divided their buildings between those who accepted the Messiah and those who rejected Him. Peter preached the Gospel in Rome and he became the first Bishop of Rome. That does not mean that that was the first Christian Church, for there were earlier churches in Palestine, Syria, Greece, etc.

In the early Christian era, the Bishop was the head of his particular church and there were differences of opinion as to dogma and church government among the various Bishops. In the hope of ending these controversies, particularly as between the Unitarians and the Trinitarians, the Council of Nicea was held in 325 A. D. The Nicene Creed established the basic dogma of the Christian Church.

The word, Pope, is perhaps one of the simplest in any language. It comes from the Latin word papa, and means Father. The Pope, while he is regarded as the Father of Christendom, is also a priest, and in nearly all languages, a Catholic priest is called Father. According to Catholic doctrine, it was Jesus' purpose that the successor to Peter should be the head of the Church and therefore the Bishop of Rome holds this position and is usually referred to as the Pope or the Holy Father. Non-Catholic historians have taken the view that it was the decision of the Roman Emperor to accept Christianity as a state religion and thus he established the Bishop of Rome as the head of the Church.

It is easily found in Church history that in the earliest period of the Church, certainly by the second and third centuries, other Christian communities referred doctrinal matters to Rome for decision, thus establishing the authority of the Bishop of Rome by precedent.

Perhaps the cornerstone of the organization of the Catholic Church is the doctrine of the infallibility of the Pope in matters of faith and morals, often referred to in early writings, confirmed by the Council of Florence in 1439 and reconfirmed by the Constitution of July 18, 1870 which finally settled also the matter of primacy.

It is the infallibility of the Pope in matters of faith and morals which makes the Roman Catholic Church universal in organization and dogma. Archbishop Paul Yu-pin, who is Chinese, is at home in a Catholic church or Catholic community in any part of the world. There is one Church, one liturgy, one set of rules, the exception being, of course, the Eastern Rites. When the Pope speaks ex-cathedra, it is with the full authority of the Church because he speaks from the "chair of Peter."

There was a time when the Church was an important temporal ruler and exercised great worldly powers. Today all that is left of that is the very small area called Vatican City, and the Pope's summer palace. Nevertheless, without the use of force or the display of power, the Pope exercises more influence than ever. He no longer calls upon any government to assist him to establish his power, but by moral suasion, by the sobriety of his life and his devotion to duty, he appeals to the minds and hearts of men. Among recent Popes, Leo XIII, Pius XI and Pius XII, were particularly significant in their capacity to introduce moral factors into world affairs.

Although the Roman Catholic Church has often lost adherents, as, for instance, the split between Constant inople and Rome, or the Reformation, it has never encountered a situation as difficult as the present one when atheistic Communism has made the Church of Rome its special target and has devoted itself to an invasion of Roman Catholic areas, particularly Italy and France. The Church's greatest losses have been such countries as Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia which were profoundly Catholic before the Kremlin took over. In this struggle, the Church retaliates with the inspiration of the miracle of Fatima.

It'll Take A Heap Of Fillin'

New York's 'Blintze' Gubernatorial Campaign

By Joseph Alsop

NEW YORK

By any practical test, the biggest moments in the New York Governorship campaign have been gustatory. First Nelson Rockefeller publicly ate a cheese blintze. And then Averell Harriman hastily topped Rockefeller, by joyfully consuming both a cheese blintze and a plate of gefüllteisch.

Maybe it sounds cynical to take this competitive public ingestion of Jewish delicacies as the symbol of this crucial fight for the Governorship of the most populous state in the union. After all, the incumbent, Harriman, is a seasoned public servant and a great figure among the Democrats. And the challenger, Rockefeller, is literally the only really promising new contender that the Republican party has produced in this rather critical election year.

Both candidates have certainly made the conventional speeches about the issues. But the issues have thus far made much less impression than the candidates' indefatigable blintze eating, pizza-munching and a street-corner handshaking.

It is really a fascinating (though mildly bewildering) public spectacle, to see these two enormously rich, exceptionally able, intensely public-spirited and deeply serious men, both mainly seeking election by the same homely methods. As Rockefeller is the novice blintze eater, his performance is perhaps more interesting.

Imagine, then, the corner of 103rd Street and Lexington Avenue, on the verge of the dark slums of Harlem's Puerto Rican district. A crowd of perhaps a hundred people—half children—has been attracted by a car-mounted loud speaker. The organizer of the occasion, the sheep-dog of the corner flock, is the chairman of Puerto Ricans for Rockefeller, Anthony Toro. Toro is of Venezuelan descent, and he is on hand, one suspects, because he formerly did a good deal of work in South America ternational Basic Economy Corporation. But as an adoptive Puerto Rican, he seems to be most successful.

The candidate is a bit late, but the Rockefeller station wagon at length draws up, chauffeured by the coordinator for Negro Affairs of Citizens for Rockefeller, James Hudson. (In ordinary life, coordinator Hudson is superintendent of Winthrop Rockefeller's Winrock Farm, down in Arkansas; but he has retained his Harlem voting residence.) The candidate leaps from the station wagon, asking in apparent surprise, "Why, who have we here?" Bedlam promptly ensues.

The children scream. The adults shout. The bearers of banners wave their printed proclamations: "Rockefeller Termina la Brutalidad Policiaica" and "Fundacion Rockefeller acabo con la Bilarzia en Puerto Rico." The candidate puts on a Mexican hat, and picks up a child, also in Mexican hat, to the child's evident delight. A lady with exceptional lung power shrieks into the microphone that "Tammany Hall and Harriman done a big mistake by taking the Puerto Rican people for granted."

Then the candidate, showing that he takes no one for granted, makes a graceful little speech in Spanish, which touches off a perfect frenzy of cheering.

That ends what has to be called the organized part of the morning, for want of a better word. Rockefeller leaves the loudspeaker and plunges into the crowd, shaking hands right and left, and occasionally bestowing a Spanish style "abrazo"—an embrace of greeting. The Mexican hat, now rising above and now being engulfed by the heaving multitude, seems like a frail barque in a high sea. One gasps when the hat seems to go under forever. But suddenly there is an opening in the ranks, and there is Nelson Rockefeller,

Republican Leaders Don't Share Optimism Of Eisenhower, Alcorn

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—When Chairman Meade Alcorn of the Republican National Committee came out of Eisenhower's conference with Republican leaders, he read a strong statement to the press. Newsmen looking at the statement noted that some of the stronger words had been interlined in longhand, and it was learned afterward that these were penciled in by Vice President Nixon.

Inside the conference, however, Nixon was not as optimistic as the official statement. Nor were other Republican leaders.

The most optimistic member of the group was President Eisenhower himself. He instructed Alcorn to pick the most vital political areas and he added, "I'll be there."

He reminded the GOP conferees that this would be virtually his last opportunity as President to participate in a major election campaign and he intended to make the most of it.

"Aside from wanting to help the party, I have a deep personal interest in this campaign," GOP leaders quoted Ike as saying. "A rebuff at the polls this year would be a reflection on the things I have tried to do, my record, in my years in the White House. I think it has been a pretty good record."

"We are at peace. We have enjoyed the greatest prosperity in history since 1933, except for the recent business slump from which we are rapidly recovering. And despite what some Democratic pessimists have been saying, we have never been as strong defensively in an over-all way, including missile development, as we are today.

"The Communist nations know this and dare not risk a war against us. I intend to do all I can to remind the American people about the record of my administration before election day."

Realistic Republicans

National Chairman Alcorn radiated some of Ike's optimism. He insisted that the Republicans didn't have too much to worry about. He said the Formosan crisis was abating and that domestic employment again was on an upturn after the recent recession. Alcorn's optimism, however, wasn't shared by the more realistic politicians at the meeting.

Nixon warned that the Democrats had to be conceded an "edge" at this stage of the campaign. House GOP leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts and Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania agreed, but said the Democratic advantage could be overcome by aggressive GOP campaigning in the next few weeks.

In fact, all the GOP Congressional spokesmen at the meeting were of the opinion that Chairman Alcorn was evincing an "overconfidence" comparable to Tom Dewey's in the 1948 Presidential campaign. Alcorn was warned, rather pointedly at times, to come down out of the clouds. As Rep. Simpson reportedly expressed it:

"This is a time when we can afford to let the Democrats fall into the error of overconfidence. I'm not making any predictions, but I think we can win or at least hold our own in the coming elections. But it's going to take a lot of hard work."

Congressman's Bad Memory

Hugh Scott, the delightful Congressman from suburban Philadelphia, should have checked his records before going out on the limb so far regarding pardons secured from the Pennsylvania Pardons Board.

When he was embarrassed by disclosure that he had received $2,000 for a 15-minute appearance before the Pardons Board on behalf of exconvict Nicholas Marcello, and then introduced a private bill for Marcello's admission into the USA, Scott made an emphatic statement that this was the only time he had appeared before the board.

Hugh was quite vigorous and positive on the point.

"This was my only appearance before the Pardons Board in some years of law practice," he said.

But the dapper GOP Congressman from Philadelphia, now running for the Senate, has a bad memory. For the Pardons Board records show that he also appeared in 1949, when his friend Jim Duff was still Governor, and made a plea for Leon Hellner, sentenced to eight to sixteen years for stealing $320,000 worth of alcohol in 1946. The congressman had additional prestige then, because he was Republican National Chairman. He got Hellner's sentence reduced from eight to four years.

A year earlier, a less potent attorney had represented Hellner, but failed in the same plea. Four years later, Hellner was released from jail on a plea by Garfield W. Levy, who charged him only $50 as against the $1,500 charged by Congressman Scott. Hugh really should be more careful about his memory.

Note—Justice Department officials were asked whether a grand jury would be called to examine the apparent conflict of interest on the part of Congressman Scott in receiving a $2,000 fee from Marcello in the pardon case, then introducing a private bill for him.

Justice Department officials refused to comment.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Theodore Green, stung by the testy reply to what he considered a polite letter to President Eisenhower, is angrily investigating reports that the President may have overstepped his authority in the Formosa Strait. Congress authorized him to defend Quemoy and Matsu if he considered them necessary to the defense of Formosa. However, Green had heard that Ike gave Chiang Kai-shek a secret pledge to help defend the offshore islands without qualification. . . . The Senator would get political satisfaction out of exposing a secret deal between Ike and Chiang, since the Republicans have raised such a hullabaloo over the late President Roosevelt's "secret diplomacy."

Pope's Election

By Bob Considine

ROME—Pius XII was chosen pope on the third ballot of the 1939 conclave. The voting took less than a day. There have been conclaves in the past which consumed nearly a year.

In their excellent book on the late and lamented Eugenio Pacelli which they call "Crown of Glory" (Hawthorn Books), biographers Alden Hatch and Seamus Walshe state that Cardinal Pacelli received 35 of the 62 votes on the first ballot. He himself is believed to have voted for Cardinal Verrier. On the next ballot he had more than 40 supporters. He had voted for Cardinal Dalla Costa of Florence.

The sacred college then declared a recess for luncheon and meditation, even as do less annotated electors. During that period Cardinal Pacelli paced the guarded courtyard of the area to which he and the other princes of the church were confined in splendor. He appeared under great stress.

As he came back into the Sixtine Chapel for what would surely be the decisive ballot in his favor he was so lost in troubled thought that he stumbled and fell on the marble steps, shaking himself up quite badly. The final vote was believed to be 61 for Pacelli and one—Pacelli's ballot—for Cardinal Granito de Belmonte, dean of the sacred college.

"Miserere Mei!" Pacelli kept whispering.

The late Pope battled gamely for his life after being hit with two strokes, heart and lung failure, gastritis, urinary blockage and racking hiccups. That the 82-year-old man lingered as long as he did was a marvel. But not to those who know the tensile strength of the Pacelli strain. His grandfather, founder of the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, lived to be 102 in an era before the world miracle was ever used in connection with drugs. The late Pope's grand uncle resided 103 years on earth and had the additional thrill, having been born in 1799, of living in three centuries.

Pius and General Mark Clark became good friends instantly after the American commander arrived at the Vatican in 1944 and met with the Pope to express his regret over the accidental bombing of ancient St. John Lateran Basilica, which happened to be the Pope's own cathedral in his role as bishop of Rome.

"I am afraid you have been disturbed by the noise of my tanks and I am sorry," the general said.

Pius smiled happily and replied, "General, any time you come to liberate Rome, you can make just as much noise as you like."

than the slender, and losing weight lessens the cholesterol level. Thyroid extract, female sex hormones, and certain steroids such as sitosterol have a lowering effect.

We may know how to decrease the blood cholesterol level but we do not know whether it does any good. Hardening of the coronary arteries is the most common cause of heart attacks due to coronary thrombosis. Because most victims of this disease have an elevated blood cholesterol, we have assumed that a second or third attack could be warded off by reducing the level.

But this more practical aspect has not been proved. Two recent reports in the medical literature cover a combined total of 150 men recovering from coronary thrombosis. They were given female sex hormones for 2½ to 3 years. This brought their blood cholesterol level to the normal limits but there was no evidence that it had any effect on the outcome of the heart disease.

Those who believe in the relationship between cholesterol and heart attacks will find these results a bit disappointing. More work will be needed. As usual, we must mark time until the statistics are tabulated.

Army Tops United Press International Football Ratings

Sooners Drop From Top 10, Navy Is 6th

Auburn Is Topped From Lead, Badgers Grab Third Place

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Army, whose outmanned Cadets defeated Notre Dame on its own field Saturday, topped the United Press International college football ratings Monday for the first time in eight years.

In a drastic revision of the top 10 teams, Auburn slipped from first to second and Oklahoma, usually at or near the top since the UPI ratings were inaugurated in 1950, dropped from second to 11th; Oklahoma, a 15-14 victim of Texas, fell out of the top 10 for the first time since Oct. 6, 1953.

Navy, Louisiana State and Texas moved into the select group while Oklahoma, Pittsburgh and Purdue dropped out. Every other team which remained in the top 10 switched positions from last week.

Army Moves To Top

The 35 leading coaches who rate the major college teams for UPI gave the Cadets 14 first-place votes and a total of 308 points in the wake of their 14-2 triumph over Notre Dame at South Bend, Army, advancing from fourth place, took over the top spot for the first time since Oct. 14, 1950.

Auburn was second with 10 first place votes and 271 points. Auburn had to work to defeat Kentucky Saturday night, 8-0.

Badgers Are Third

Wisconsin, impressive in a 31-6 triumph over Purdue, advanced from sixth to third with five first-place votes and 244 points. Ohio State, hard-pressed by Illinois during a 19-13 victory, advanced from fifth to fourth with three first-place votes and 242 points. Michigan State, a 22-8 victor over Pitt, moved from seventh to fifth with a first-place vote and 183 points.

Navy, which gave the big service schools a perfect day in the Midwest Saturday by downing Michigan, 20-14, advanced from 15th to sixth with 114 points. Texas, also made a big jump, moving from 16th to seventh with a first-place vote and 111 points after whipping Oklahoma.

Includes Three Southern Teams

Mississippi moved from ninth to eighth with 91 points. Louisiana State, which made Miami (Fla.) its fourth straight victim, 41-8, moved from 15th to ninth with a first-place vote and 86 points. Notre Dame was 10th with 63 points.

The select 10 included four Midwest teams, three of these representing the Big Ten; three from the South, the two service academies and one Southwest school.

Oklahoma, with 38 points, headed the second 10 group. Clemson, Iowa, Oregon, Colorado, Purdue, College of Pacific, Pittsburgh, Northwestern and Michigan rounded out the top 20 in that order. Only 22 schools received votes. Southern Methodist and Syracuse were the others mentioned on the ballots.

King Will Coach Redleg Pitchers

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The Cincinnati Redlegs Monday night announced the signing of Clyde King, a former relief ace with the old Brooklyn Dodgers, as the club's new pitching coach.

King pitched for the Dodgers for five seasons. He enjoyed his greatest major league season with them in 1951, winning 14 and losing seven while appearing in 48 games, almost all in relief.

He managed Atlanta in 1955 and 1956, guiding the Crackers to the Southern Association pennant in '56. He later switched to the Pittsburgh Pirates' organization, piloting Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League in 1957 and Columbus of the International League this year.

King, 33, is a native of Goldsboro, N. C., where he teaches Sunday school during the off-season.

Aussies Cop Golf Crown

Bag World Title By Two Strokes

By STERLING SLAPPEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Andrews, Scotland (AP)—Australia won the first World Amateur Golf Team Championship Monday by the margin of two strokes, one superb round of golf by young Bruce Devlin and a phenomenally lucky shot.

The Australians' margin in the 18-hole playoff for the huge Eisenhower Trophy was 222 strokes against 224 for the United States.

The count was based on the three low scores for each team and Devlin, who celebrated his 21st birthday during the competition last week, made the greatest contribution toward it when he shot a playoff round of 37-35—72 over the massive Old Course of St. Andrews.

But it was a whistling iron shot by Australian Captain Bob Stevens which struck the pin on the 14th hole and dropped safely on the green that crushed the Americans' rising hopes and saved the Australian victory.

That saved the Aussies at least the two strokes by which they won. The ball seemed headed straight for the heather and when a player gets into that deep, prickly stuff on the seaside old course, it usually takes him a couple to get out.

Monday's playoff between four-man teams came after they had finished 72 holes Saturday tied with 918 strokes each. Only the three best scores on each team counted each day—just as they did in the playoff. There had been 29 teams in the competition.

Added to Devlin's score Monday were a 40-35—75 by Stevens and 39-36—75 by Peter Toogood. A round of 37-41—78 by Doug Bachli did not count.

U.S. Amateur Champion Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City was low for the Americans with 38-35—73. Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., had 38-37—75. Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor of Pomona, Calif., took 39-37—76 and Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia 40-38—78. Hyndman's score did not count.

Gene Conley Will Join Cage Team

BOSTON (AP)—Gene Conley, Milwaukee Braves baseball pitcher who has been bothered by arm trouble the past two years, will join the Boston Celtics basketball team it was announced Monday.

Valley, Undeclared In 40 Games, Plays Beall Today

WMI Soccer League Lead Is At Stake; Aggies Host Bruce

Undeclared but tied five times in 40 consecutive games, Valley High School is expected to face one of its toughest tests of the season today when it tackles Beall High School's Mountaineers in a W.M.I. Soccer League contest in Frostburg at 3:30 p. m.

Since joining the W.M.I. League in 1953, Valley has lost only one game, that a 3-2 decision at Flintstone on October 9, 1953, in the third game of that campaign. Winner of five consecutive county league titles, the Black Knights go into their sixth season with a record of 37 victories, one loss and five ties. All of the tie contests, incidentally, were in games with Bruce High School. Since their only defeat five years ago, Coach John C. Meyers' booters have won 35 games and played five ties.

Valley is setting the pace in the current race with a 2-0-1 record and five points, having beaten Mt. Savage, 5-0, and Flintstone, 7-0, but was held to a 1-1 draw by Bruce. Beall owns a 2-0 record, having defeated Flintstone, 3-1, and Mt. Savage, 2-1, and could take over the league leadership by winning today's contest.

Bill Salesky and Clifton Van Roby will officiate.

Wageley's Clowns Top Syckes, 24-18, In Touch Football

Pole Wageley's Clowns defeated Syckes Music Store Sunday at Post Field by the score of 24-18 in the opening game of the season in the Adult Touch Football League.

The Clowns scored two touchdowns on 10-yard passes from Ronnie Cage to Wageley. Cage intercepted a pass and ran 30 yards for a score and tossed a 10-yard pass to Miller for the final six-point.

Kirby passed 15 yards to Rice and 35 yards to Coleman for two Syckes touchdowns and a 35-yarder from Shipley to Parsons produced the losers' other score.

Score by periods:
Syckes 6 6 6 0—18
Wageley 6 12 0 6—24

Touchdowns: Wageley's Clowns—Wageley 2, Cage, Miller, Syckes Music Store—Parsons, Rice, Coleman.

Folley Is Favored In Bout At London

LONDON (UPI)—Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., rated the No. 1 challenger for Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight title, was a 2 to 1 favorite Monday to defeat Britain's Henry Cooper in a 10-round bout at the Empire Pool in Wembley, Tuesday night.

Boxing experts agree that the odds are based "on the book of form," which shows the American Negro has lost only two of his 43 professional bouts, and won 26 by knockout.

In contrast, Cooper, a 24-year-old former builder's plasterer, has had 24 bouts, winning only 14 since he began his career in 1954. But most of his wins have been over second, and even third-raters.

Cadets Lead Race For Grid Trophy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Army was the unanimous choice Monday for first place in the Lambert Trophy ratings for Eastern college football supremacy. Navy and Pittsburgh followed in that order.

Army, which defeated Notre Dame, 141-2 last Saturday, received a perfect score of 10.0 this week from the panel of sports writers, broadcasters and experts who do the voting. Navy had a score of 9.0 and Pitt 7.5.

Pirates Acquire Pendleton, Rowe

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, in a two-for-one deal today with their Columbus, Ohio, team of the International League, acquired infielder Jim Pendleton and pitcher Don Rowe in exchange for shortstop Gair Allie.

Pendleton was with the Pirates as a utility man at the beginning of last season before being released to the Jets. He appeared in 123 games for Columbus, batted .313, drove in 68 runs and hit 14 homers.

Rowe was sidelined most of the season after undergoing an appendectomy. He appeared in 19 games and held a 1-5 record. He is a southpaw. Allie had been on option to the Columbus team.

Duren Is Sorry If He Made Sign

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Relief ace Ryne Duren of the New York Yankees said Monday night he still could not remember making a "choke-up" sign to umpire Charlie Berry during the World Series, but if he did, he "sincerely apologizes."

Duren, who makes his home here, said he was notified about the $250 fine in a wire from Commissioner Ford Frick's office Monday.

It has been a real happy season for me," said the bespectacled fastballer, "and I'm sorry this had to come up.

"But I'm not angry about it or anything like that. If I made that sign to the umpire, I honestly don't remember it. If I did do it, I certainly want to apologize sincerely to Charlie Berry.

"Nobody likes to lose $250, but I'll pay it with a smile because this has been my happiest season in baseball."

Dempsey Ailing, Will Take Rest

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Dempsey, former world-heavyweight champion who has been suffering from a stomach hernia for the last three months, said Monday he will start a three-week rest Tuesday to determine whether an operation will be necessary.

"My doctors have ordered me to go into what you might call isolation and stay in bed for at least three weeks," Dempsey said. "If the bleeding does not stop by then, I'll have to have an operation."

Torres Stops Kid Anselm

Scores K.O. In 9th At St. Nick Arena

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jose Torres, unbeaten young Puerto Rican middleweight, knocked out Frankie (Kid) Anselm of Philadelphia Monday night in the ninth round at St. Nicholas Arena for his seventh straight victory.

Anselm was floored first in the third round then in the ninth. An explosive right to the chin dropped the Philadelphia flat on his back, where referee Arthur Mercante called it a "knockout" without bothering to count over him.

Torres, a stablemate of heavy-weight champion Floyd Patterson, weighed 158½ to Anselm's 156 for this scheduled 10-round bout, which ended at 2:12 of the ninth.

It was Torres' fifth knockout in his seven starts and it was Anselm's fifth knockout in 14 defeats. It was his 39th bout.

Torres, favored at 5-1, had to go the longest distance Monday night since he turned professional five months ago. Although two of his previous opponents had lasted a scheduled distance, those bouts had not been slated for more than eight rounds.

Dempsey said he suffered the diaphragm hernia in June while refereeing a charity wrestling match in Boston. He said he was to go into what you might call pulling one of the wrestlers off at his opponent when the lower man least three weeks. Dempsey suddenly jerked up his head and said "If the bleeding does not stop by then, I'll have to have an operation."

In Memoriam
In memory of my dear husband, Trone H. Whitney, who passed away four years ago, October 14, 1954. Dear husband, you are not forgotten by the ones who loved you best. Although God in all his wisdom has taken you home to rest, God gave me strength to live on and courage to bear the blow. But what I meant to lose you, no one will ever know. The tears in my eyes may not glisten and my face may not always be sad, but there's never a night or morning I don't think of the husband I had. My prayer, May God keep you in his care.
Loving wife, Sue Whitney.

Holiday One Of Busiest Market Trading Sessions

NEW YORK (UPI)—Columbus Day, for many years a stock market holiday, proved one of the heaviest trading sessions of the year as the list climbed to further new all-time highs.

Spurred by news items showing a sharply rising business curve, declining unemployment, improving prices for copper, and the attempted U.S. rocket shot at the moon, prices ran up more than 4 points in the industrial average before a late spurt of profit-taking pared gains.

The realizing, although it came on a late ticker, left only the rail average lower on the day. Among industrials final gains of a point to 2 appeared in the metals, steels, motors, drug and chemical shares, oils and a long list of miscellaneous issues.

Volume, reflecting late-running tickers, totaled 4,550,000 shares, against 4,610,000 shares on Friday, the heaviest turnover of the year.

First hour volume, when tickers appeared late twice on the upside as orders generated over the week-end were carried out, totaled 1-million shares.

Among the day's best performers, International Nickel and Kaiser Aluminum ran up over 2 points in the metals, Magna Copper nearly 2 points.

Tawes Pledges Balance Of State Economy

300 Democrats Attend Rally

J. Millard Tawes, Democratic candidate for Governor, last night told Allegany County Democrats that James P. Devereux, G.O.P. gubernatorial candidate, voted against the Area Redevelopment Bill in the last session of Congress "in cynical disregard" for the distressed areas of his own state.

He said that by voting against the bill Rep. Devereux voted against loans to help these areas attract new factories, against loans to help hard-pressed cities and towns to improve sewage and water systems and for technical assistance to help them determine their best potentials for economic growth.

Mr. Tawes was the principal speaker at a Democratic rally held last night in the Eagles Home here and attended by up to 300 Democratic stalwarts of this area.

Pledges Balanced Economy

He said such a program has been a basic part of his campaign from the beginning and "I consider it an essential part of any effort to bring about a balanced expansion of the State's economy."

"Mr. Devereux," he said, "has recently also given lip service to a program of industrial development for Maryland, but I suggest that his ghost writers check his voting record before getting too far into conflict with himself."

Thomas B. Finan, state campaign manager, served as master of ceremonies for the enthusiastic meeting.

He said the rally climaxed a busy day marked by a rally at Hilltop Inn in Garrett County and visits to the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and Frostburg State Teachers College.

He introduced the state candidates, Mr. Tawes, Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro, candidate for Senate; Louis L. Goldstein, for comptroller, and John F. Foley, for Maryland's Sixth Congressional District.

C. Ferdinand Sybert, candidate for re-election as attorney general, he said, is ill with laryngitis and could not be present. He introduced George P. Mahoney as the "fighting Democrat."

Senator Goldstein, introduced as the sparkplug of the Harmony Team, said Democratic candidates have been "packing them in" at rallies throughout the state.

The GOP, he said, is in trouble as people balance promises with performances.

Senator Goldstein pledged to work for three buildings needed at Frostburg State Teachers College, and said "we must take care of the far end of the State."

He attacked D. Eldred Rinehart, state GOP and Racing Commission chairman, saying Mr. Rinehart came to Annapolis only to lobby and that the 10 charges he made Monday morning were "ghost written."

Mr. Finan said Mr. Rinehart will "true the day he picked Louis Goldstein to make pot shots at."

Simon P. Reilly, Allegany County Democratic campaign chairman, suggested "Remember the State of Maine" as the battle cry of Allegany County Democrats.

GOP candidates, he said, are (Continued on Page 8, Col. 6)

UMW Endorses All Democrats But Randolph

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Mine Workers union gave blanket endorsement Monday to West Virginia Democratic nominees for election to Congress — with one notable exception.

The union said nothing about the race between former Rep. Jennings Randolph, running against Republican incumbent Sen. John D. Hobbittzell, while Hobbittzell — who received a low "score" in the UMW's recent rating of incumbent candidates according to their voting records in the 83rd Congress — was not endorsed, neither was Randolph.

Rep. Robert C. Byrd, running to unseat the other Republican incumbent senator, Chapman Revercomb, received full UMW endorsement, as did the full slate of Democratic congressional nominees.

A possible indication of the UMW's feeling as regards Randolph — who served in Congress from 1933 to 1947 — came last month when a local president in northern West Virginia publicly criticized the Elkins Democrat at a gathering of miners.

In the Aug. 5 Democratic primary, UMW leaders supported former Gov. William C. Marland against Randolph.

However, Randolph has the backing of the West Virginia Federation of Labor (AFL-CIO) which endorsed in the primary against Marland.

Besides Byrd, the UMW announced support for former Rep. Robert H. Mollohan in West Virginia's 1st Congressional District; Rep. Harley O. Staggers in the 2nd District; Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey in the 3rd, Ken Hechler in the 4th, unopposed Rep. Elizabeth Kee in the 5th and John M. Slack in the 6th.

Democratic Candidates Speak Here

Democratic candidates for state offices were the principal speakers at a rally held last night at the Eagles Home on North Mechanic Street. Over 300 persons attended the meeting last night which climaxed a tour of Allegany and Garrett counties by the candidates. Speaking at microphone is Louis L. Goldstein, candidate for state comptroller. Seated left to right are Thomas B. Finan, state campaign manager; Simon Riley, county campaign manager; Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro, candidate for U. S. Senate; J. Millard Tawes, candidate for governor; and George P. Mahoney, who was a candidate for the U. S. Senate in the Democratic primary. Mahoney endorsed all the state Democratic candidates.

Solid GOP Delegation Advocated

Republicans Stage Midland Rally

GOP stalwarts of the Midland area were told last night it is vital that Allegany County continue to have an all Republican Delegation in the General Assembly.

Del. Thomas N. Berry, addressing the fifth in a series of Republican rallies, said a solid Republican delegation is particularly important in the coming session.

All local legislation, he explained, must first be referred to the Allegany County Delegation before going to the House, and all Republican Delegation can give such measures careful and frank appraisal without being hindered by partisan politics within the Delegation.

Minority Leader Allegany County's all-Republican Delegation at Annapolis has been a cornerstone of Republican strength, he said, since the minority floor leader has been from Allegany County. It has also meant that Allegany County has been assured representation on the important Legislative Council, which meets regularly between sessions of the General Assembly.

Master of ceremonies at the rally was David J. Williams, member of the county delegation to the House of Delegates.

The principal talk was given by George R. Hughes Jr., minority floor leader of the House of Delegates who was introduced by Delegate Berry.

Mr. Hughes urged all those present to continue as solid Republicans and pointed out he has worked with all the present delegates candidates who are all qualified for the position.

Candidates Experienced He went on to say that candidates seeking state posts have had experience in lawmaking. Delegate Hughes said that J. Millard Tawes, Democratic nominee for governor, has refused to take a stand on any major issue in the campaign thus far. He added that the Republican record is one to be proud of.

County Commissioner William A. Wilson, who spoke on behalf of the Board, said the Republican candidates for commissioner represent a total of 17 years experience in that office.

"I can assure the voters of Allegany County that the Republican candidates will devote all of the time necessary for the full performance of their office," said Commissioner Wilson.

He added, "our slate of county commissioners already have a much needed background for supervising the Roads Department, the county institutions and acting as a Board of Review for the Assessing Department."

Some 100 persons attended the rally, according to Donald W. Mason, campaign manager for the county.

Wednesday Deadline For County Farmers To Cast ASC Ballot

Thus far about 150 farmers have returned their ballots to the office where the tabulation board will count the votes on Thursday. Some 806 farmers are eligible to vote, Miss Hoover said.

Among those attending the dinner were Mayor J. Edwin Keech and his wife. The mayor extended greetings to those in attendance. Also present were a number of grand lodge officers.

City To Study Fee Appeal By Garbage Men

Over 2,500 Users Live Outside Limits

Area garbage contractors were advised yesterday morning the Mayor and Council would take under further consideration a request for a decreased fee for use of the city dump but that the facility will definitely be regulated effective November 15.

The garbage contractors met with the Mayor and Council following yesterday's council meeting.

George Boch, Beall Street, who hauls garbage primarily for residents of LaVale and downtown business establishments here, reported he served 1,200 families, all of whom live outside the city limits and that his only dumping spot is the Cumberland dump.

Has 1,100 Families

Ralph Stevanus, RFD Meyersdale, Pa., reported he provides garbage collection services for about 1,100 families, primarily in the Bedford Road area and including some from Pennsylvania.

Gilbert Kerns, Bowmans Addition, reported he has about 150 customers, most of them in the Bowmans Addition area.

George Fuller, Corriganville, said he served about 100 families, mostly in the Corriganville area.

This adds up to over 2,500 families who live outside the limits of Cumberland and have been dumping trash and garbage at the city dump at no cost.

A City spokesman said the garbage contractors complained about the proposal for the hours at the dump.

Under the city proposal, dumping will be allowed from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. on weekdays and 9 a. m. to noon on Saturdays. It will be closed on certain pre-announced holidays and Sundays.

Can't Change Hours

City officials explained that after the regulations are placed in effect, dumping can be allowed only when an employee of the city is on duty, and that since there is only one worker, the hours must remain as originally proposed.

The garbage haulers also complained about the proposed charge of $12 a year per family.

The fee proposal, haulers were told, will be taken under further consideration.

Under the proposal, commercial haulers from outside the city limits of Cumberland would be required to furnish a list of all customers residing outside the city limits. The hauler would be required to pay the city $12 a year for each customer outside the city limits.

Nine contractors—five of them from out-of-town—have informed Rev. Mr. Snyder that they plan to submit bids on or before November 4.
